REMINISCENCES OF OUR PIONEER DAYS

By Men Who Laid the Foundation of Our County.

Among other distinctions which in times past fell to the lot of Redwood City, and one which by the people was justly considered an honor of no small moment at the time, was the honor of furnishing to Uncle Sam an officer for his army. This distinction came through Robert D. Walsh, a son of Judge Michel Walsh, one of the pioneer settlers of the town. After graduating from West Point and receiving his commission in the army, the young officer returned to Redwood City July 15th, 1883, to enjoy a month's vacation and to visit with the members of his family. Justly appreciating the honor which had fallen to a one of their class a number of his schoolmates of the youthful days arranged a public reception in honor of Lieutenant Walsh, which was held at Germania Hall on the evening of July 23d. In response to the invitation issued some 200 people of the county gathered at the hall to pay their respects to one who had been a popular youth of the town and had done honor to himself and his family and friends. After Lieutenant Walsh had been given an opportunity to express his appreciation for the public demonstration, the evening was devoted to social enjoyment, the chief feature of which was a dance.

Notwithstanding repeated efforts at improvement, the Town Trustees found considerable difficulty in providing a sufficient supply of water for the inhabitants of the town, and on more than one occasion found themselves forced to resort to doubtful expedients to enable them to continue the operation of the municipal water plant. One of these periodical troubles occurred in the summer of 1883. The wells failed to produce the amount of water expected and it was necessary to resort to every expedient to curtail the demand. About the middle of July this trouble became so serious that finally the Trustees were forced to order the water shut off from the pipes entirely during the night, and thus the people of Redwood City found themselves without water, either for domestic use or fire protection from 8 o'clock in the evening until 5 in the morning. On one or two occasions this nearly resulted in serious fires.

On the first of September, 1883, P. P. Chabertin became the sole proprietor of what has already been known as the "Pioneer Store," purchasing the interest of Mr. Wilcox. No change was made in the conduct or scope of the business, the establishment carrying then as it does now, a complete stock of general merchandise and continuing to do business in the old brick building where it is located at the present time.

One of the notable events in social and fraternal circles of the city was the celebration of the 21st anniversary of its institution by Bay View Lodge of Odd Fellows, which was held at Germania Hall on the evening of October 4th. The celebration was a public one and called together an assemblage which testified to the capacity of the hall. Several of the prominent officials of the grand lodge, among whom were Past Grand Master Charles N. Fox and Grand Master W. W. Morrow, were in attendance and delivered addresses. Mr. Fox regaling his hearers with a history of the lodge and its work. As usual with gatherings of this character, a considerable portion of the evening was given to dancing.

In the "good old days" things were not always done with a rush. As an instance of this fact, the experience of Captain John Hansen in the line of boat building, an industry not at all uncommon at a short time ago while dependent, realizing his condition, Kennedy attempted suicide by cutting gashes in his legs and wrists. The loss of blood relieved the pressure on his heart and for a time he was much improved. His only known relative is a sister, Catherine, residing in New Jersey.

boat was 60 feet in length and 19 feet in beam. The boat was built for a staunch craft, the ribs were of heavy iron oak which was cut and prepared in the neighboring hills by Captain Hansen himself. It was stated that the total cost of building the vessel, not including the labor performed by the owner himself, would be not less than $5000. The new vessel was finally launched on the 15th of November, the interesting ceremony taking place just back of Hanson & Co.'s brick warehouse and being witnessed by a large gathering of people who had assembled for the occasion. The vessel was appropriately christened "Perseverance," that service being performed by a young daughter of Captain Hansen with the customary breaking of a bottle of champagne. After the schooner had been safely placed in the water Captain Hansen served the assembled crowd with refreshments in honor of the new possession he had labored so long to provide for himself.

The board adjourned to Monday, July 17th.

Second Edition Demanded

A new and much enlarged edition of that unique book, "The Mountain that Was God," which made its first appearance last summer, is now issued by its author-publisher, John W. Williams, of Tacoma, Washington, with G. P. Putnam's Sons of New York as his eastern agents. Nearly 25,000 copies of the first edition of this beautifully illustrated volume were sold in eight months. In the new edition, care has been taken to make the book finer and more attractive than ever. The text has been almost doubled, and the number of illustrations has grown from 140 to 190, eight of which are in color. The book has already won the enthusiastic approval of lovers of the great peaks. One of these, a well-known New England author, wrote to Mr. Williams: "If your big mountain were a university, it would give you a degree."

OAKLAND BOYS' BAND WILL GIVE OPEN-AIR CONCERT.

The Oakland Boys' Band, an organization of twenty-eight pieces, which has been touring the southern cities, will arrive in Redwood City either Sunday or Monday, and on Monday evening will give an open-air concert at 8 o'clock at the corner of Main and Broadway.

The band is one of the best musical bodies around the bay and its appearance in Redwood will be a treat to local music lovers.

City Clerk Plump is in receipt of a letter from the manager of the band asking for a camp site and water. Mr. Plump will provide the necessary accommodations free and will make arrangements for the concert.

Died at County Farm.

George R. Kennedy, a native of New York, aged 71 years died at the county farm on Monday. Death was caused by valvular disease of the heart. Deceased had been at the farm since February 5th, coming from Pescadero where he had resided a number of years. A short time ago while dependent, realizing his condition, Kennedy attempted suicide by cutting gashes in his legs and wrists. The loss of blood relieved the pressure on his heart and for a time he was much improved. His only known relative is a sister, Catherine, residing in New Jersey.

ARRESTED AT WOODSIDE ON CHARGE OF ROBBERY

Accused of stealing $25 from Oscar Morse and wife, blind beggars living in San Francisco, John D. Rinteen, a former member of the Massachusetts legislature, who is said to be a slave to drink, was arrested Saturday by United States Marshal Elliott at Woodside and arraigned Monday by Commissioner Frank Krull.

Rinteen was employed by Morse to care for them, and it is alleged that on April 21 he received a letter addressed to Morse, which he opened and stole the $25 it contained. He disappeared the next day, but through Postal Inspector Madeira he was located at Woodside.

The accused man is 69 years old and says he was a member of the Massachusetts legislature in 1887 as the representative of the first district of that state. He admits receiving the letter, but says he gave it to Mrs. Morse.

On his side Rinteen makes some interesting accusations against the Moreses. He says that though they beg on the streets of San Francisco, they deposit $25 a week in savings banks and that Mrs. Morse is not totally blind as she says she is. He also says that Morse, who begs from an invalid chair on the streets and pretends to be paralyzed, is perfectly able to get about when not seeking alms. Commissioner Krull fixed Rinteen's bond at $1000, which he could not furnish.

Reading for Everybody

Of course if you are too young to read, or so old you've forgotten how, you may not enjoy the Youth's Companion. That's rather a sweeping statement, however, for hosts of children love to have the stories and jingles of the children's page read to them. There's many a grandfather and grandmother whose eyes are dim who like nothing better than to sit and listen to The Companion stories and articles. Many a blind person and even those who in addition can neither hear nor speak have been cheered by the Companion, its contents having been communicated to them through the finger-tips of friends. The reading of The Youth's Companion is a pretty sure cure for all kinds of loneliness. Robinson Crusoe would have been a happier man if he could have had his Companion Thursday as well as his man Friday. Just send for a sample of the July number and see if you don't like it. The Youth's Companion, 144 Berkeley street, Boston, Mass.

Ely's Flight at Reno Stopped.

Nevada's first sight of aviation came near ending in disaster at Reno Tuesday, when Eugene Ely's engine broke when he was flying 1,000 feet above a crowd of 2,000 spectators. Ely immediately descended. The flight was made under most difficult conditions, on account of treacherous air currents. These prevented Ely taking the risk of having Governor Odell accompany him. He had made two circles when he was forced to descend. Ely, who is a son-in-law of Henry C. Hall, is one of the most daring aviators.

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER
D. E. O'KEEFE, Editor and Proprietor

Eight hour laws are a blessing only to such persons as are capable of making good use of their unemployed time.

On the date of the first anniversary of his decline as "the white man's hope," Jim Jeffries said that he went into the ring at Reno as a business man. As he took out something like $100,000 for taking his thrashing, it might be said that he also left the ring as a business man.

The Eskimo of St. Michaels, our northernmost extremity, have petitioned the government for a postal savings bank, urging that they are compelled to dig holes in which to bury their money. As far as we are advised, digging a hole anywhere under the Arctic circle is not a job any man would exactly like.

THE DAY OF REST

It was Sancho Panza, the factor and servant of the Knight of the Rueful Countenance, who gave utterance to the memorable saying: "Blessed be the man who invented sleep." He might well have added: Blessed be the man who invented Sunday.

Looked upon as a human institution—and as such, for the time, let us regard it—it is the very embodiment of human wisdom. Indeed it is the grandest of all inventions, one fraught with the greatest consequences to the human race. It is the sunburst through the cloud, the gleam of hope and joy to the soul.

To all mankind work of some sort is a necessity. To the vast majority it is the weary bearing of heavy and oftentimes painful burdens, with no rest nor respite, save that which comes with the precious custom which dedicates and, in a religious sense, consecrates one-seventh of the time of rest. Although Sunday is claimed by the church as a holy day, to be devoted exclusively to religious uses, it also belongs to the world, to be enjoyed as reason and conscience should dictate. In this sense it belongs to man, and its property of all who claim it. "Let no man," says Paul, "judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of an holy day, or of the new moon, or of the Sabbath days."

What society needs is a higher appreciation of the privileges of Sunday. But more than all, it needs a higher appreciation of all days, and of the opportunities of life generally, if it can not have the former until it secures the latter. All that hurts or degrades, man physically or spiritually; all that retards his moral and intellectual advancement; in short, all that is not a help to him in some way, should be discountenanced. To this end every good citizen should lend a helping hand. In that direction lies the truest welfare of society.

Then, "welcome, sweet day of rest." Welcome, thence welcome, to the world's weary ones weighted down with the burdens of many cares. How glad the soul that comes of a day of rest to the tired hand and exhausted brain.

Chirghino Not Guilty.
Peter Chirghino of Menlo Park, who was accused of stealing a ring from George King on the Fourth of July, was acquitted of the charge by Judge Lampkin yesterday. The testimony showed that King was hopelessly under the influence of liquor when the crime was alleged to have been committed. Both men had been in San Francisco and returned to Menlo Park with heavy "jags." They both secured an overdose of liquor in the city for they knew they could not get any at Menlo Park for that place is now in the dry zone.

New Actions Filed
Henry C. Mitchell has brought suit in the superior court against Rudolph Mitchell to recover the sum of $1000 for labor performed by plaintiff as laborer at the hog ranch of defendant at Colma. The services were rendered from July 14, 1909 to July 14, 1911. Plaintiff in his complaint alleges that he has made a demand on defendant for the money and had been refused. He E. Styles is the attorney for the plaintiff.

Five Thousand Excursionists
The largest crowd ever moved over the coast division of the Southern Pacific in a single day happened last week when over five thousand persons from different cities around San Francisco bay and from the valleys of the Sacramento took advantage of the $10 rate for the fifteen-day trip to Los Angeles over the coast line with the privilege of stopping off at any station they may care to during that time.
